NEW SUGAR COUNTRIES

Effect of Their Annexation on the American Market.

Expert Says Danger is From Bounty Fed European Beets—What Cuba and Other Islands Produce.

The Planters' Monthly for August says: Henry A. Brown, an excellent authority on sugar matters speaking of the effect of an occupation of Cuba, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands, all cane sugar producing countries, states that in the year ended June 30, 1894, Cuba and Porto Rico sent us 983,474 tons of sugar, or above the average annual quantity exported to us. In the fiscal year 1897, we received 296,606 tons of sugar from Cuba and Porto Rico.

We had of sugar from the Philippines in the year ended June 30, 1890, 64,776 tons of sugar, her largest shipment to us. Last year only 32,500 tons of sugar came here from these islands.

Hawaii sent us in the year ending June 30, 1897, 192,547 tons of sugar.

Taking the highest figures of sugar for one year, as above, we received from all the countries named a total of 1,240,707 tons of sugar, while Germany sent us in the last fiscal year named 711,756 tons of beet sugar, and other European countries added to it 198,329 tons, in all 910,805 tons of beet sugar from Europe, and the quantity of beet sugar exports to this country annually increases, while the quantity of cane sugar rapidly decreases, a condition more dangerous to our producers than exists elsewhere.

England takes most of the product of the Philippines, her imports from thence being in 1896-345,691 tons of sugar, against 64-766 tons of sugar sent to us in that year from the Philippine islands. Leaving out Cuba there remains the small quantity of sugar likely to reach us from the Philippines, not to exceed an average of 60,000 tons per annum, and an average of not more than 200,000 tons of sugar from Hawaii, in all some 270,000 tons of sugar per annum from countries in the Pacific coast affecting us as against over 900,000 tons of beet sugar with which we were loaded last year.

It is true that the Philippine islands produce about 500,000 tons of sugar per annum at their best. So much the better for us if we retain the islands, as England will gladly buy four fifths or all of it; in fact, the scare is practically reduced to Hawaiian sugars of which the production is limited, and not likely to exceed its present production to any material extent, while our capacity for producing beet sugar is equal to the present production of Europe to say the least.

American sugar producers are borrowing trouble, only to perceive or imagine impending ruin to our sugar industries, which there is no reason to apprehend under existing conditions likely to come about. The fact is, this country consumed in the year ended June 30, 1897, 2,387,237 tons of imported sugar and 330-356 tons of domestic sugar, (a total of 2,717,593 tons, or 6,087,418,388 pounds, 83.75 per capita. Home producers have ability, capital, energy and skill enough to get a lion's share of this vast sugar producing industry, and need not fear either Hawaiian or Philippine islands as competitors, but should beware of the floods of European bounty-fed beet sugars that are rushed to this country far more to their hurt.
